

The Easter Bonnet That Turned Into a Book

by MARCI JARVIS (marci100@aol.com)

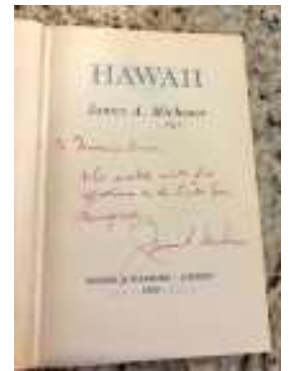

Many years ago, in 1962, I volunteered with a service organization to collect for Easter Seals. The winner of a drawing was to get an Easter bonnet. I wrote my mother's name on the ticket. When she received the phone call that she had won, it wasn't for a holiday hat, so she gave my name instead.

The prize was an autographed copy of James Michener's Hawaii. (My name was unfortunately misspelled.)

American author, James Michener, had donated an autographed copy of Hawaii for the Easter Seals raffle.

Hawaii was published in 1959, the year of Hawaii's statehood.

Michener was born in 1907 in Doylestown, Bucks County, Pennsylvania, about 23 miles from where I grew up.
