

“Virtually connected” thanks to the Pandemic

By Devershi Bhagat, (Devershi.bhagat@gmail.com)

COVID-19 has accelerated the shift towards virtual connections and remote interactions. It has shown us that we can effectively communicate, collaborate, and connect with others through digital platforms and tools. This shift has not only impacted how we work but also how we socialize, attend events, and access various services. It has emphasized the importance of virtual connectivity in maintaining relationships and conducting activities in a safe and efficient manner.

Many World countries issued a commemorative stamp showcasing the use of technology to bridge distances, showcase virtual events, and highlight the impact of virtual connectivity on various aspects of life, such as education, work, and social interactions. During the pandemic times, world countries commemorated many stamps showcasing how people connected with each other by virtual means

Beautiful stamp issued by Philpost at Philippines On the occasion of Christmas in 2021 showcasing how Peoples connect using virtual connecting software.

Another stamp from Correos de Chile issued a stamp On Christmas times in 2020 showcasing how Children's favourite Santa Clause connected peoples by online video calls.

Philpost of Philippines also issued a beautiful stamp on occasion of National Teachers Month in 2021 displaying how Education services were delivered by Online means during lockdown.

A Beautiful Mini-sheet issued by Singpost of Singapore in 2020, Showcasing Work from Home Concept which was a big success during the time of pandemic.

POS Indonesia issued 3 stamps in 2020 on pandemic theme, where this stamp sympathize virtual connecting during lockdowns.

Anpost of Ireland issued a set of stamps in 2020 Stating “connection and safety during the pandemic”.

Jordan Post issued a set of Stamps with a title of “Jordan is united to confront corona Pandemic”, Where it showcase how Education was moved from physical classrooms to virtual classrooms.

PhilPost of Philippines issued a very thoughtful stamp on the occasion of Valentines day in 2021 showcasing couple connecting With each others over virtual mediums.